

EPIC Haiku/Secure Chat quick reference guide

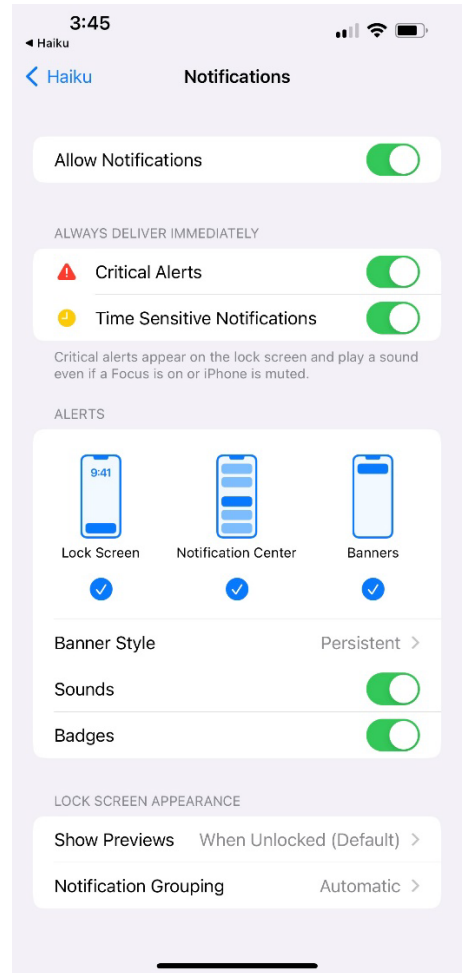

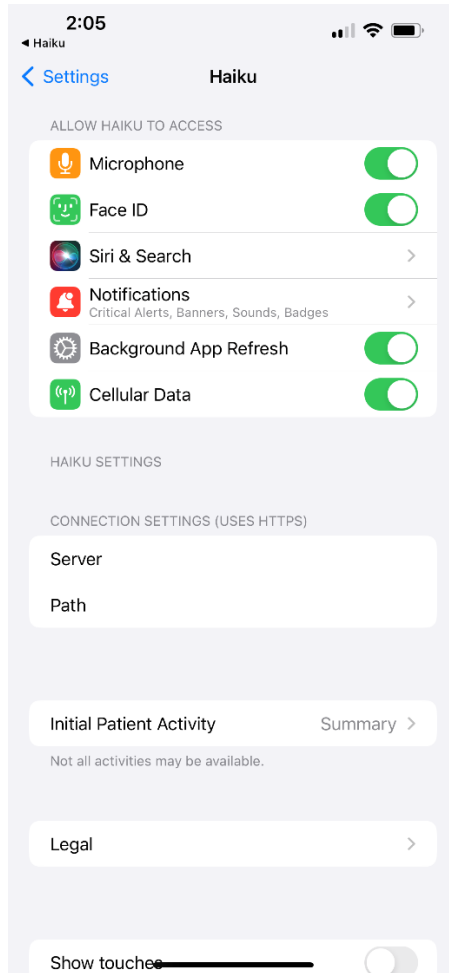

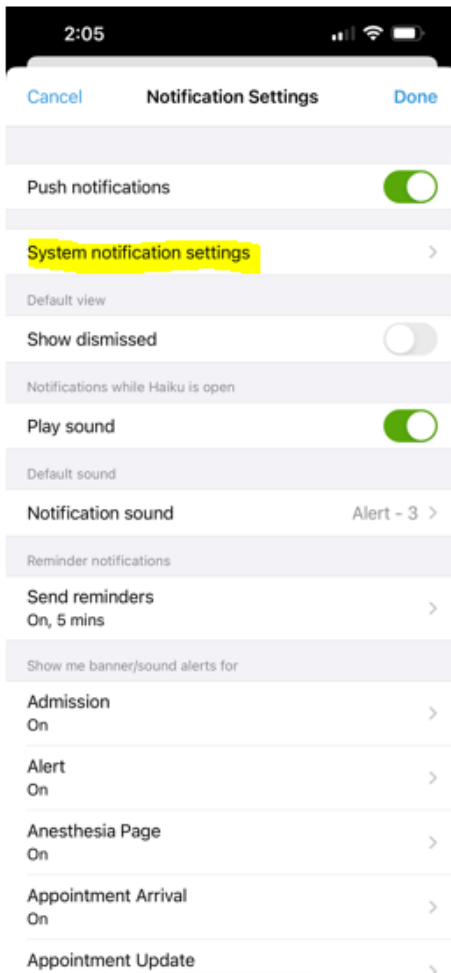

By clicking the Icon in the upper right corner of the main menu, you can access your profile settings menu for the Haiku app on your phone. From here you can access the chat settings where you can forward your messages to another user and add or remove yourself from groups that have been created.

Within the notification setting menu, you can control the various settings for the app – including the sound of your notification and reminder notifications as well as the frequency of the reminders. Note: you have the ability to set different sounds for the initial alert and the reminder alert. The recommendation for both notifications is Alert-3 as it is a loud, persistent notification. You can also turn off the push notifications for the app when do you not want to receive alerts at all. Note: turning off push notifications will not allow users to utilize the urgent message function to reach you. More on this below.

Selecting the system notification option will take you to your phone-specific settings for the Haiku app. From here you can choose how your phone interacts with the Haiku app. You can also change notification settings from the phone level. You can completely turn off notifications here or choose which type of notifications you wish to see. Note: Again, turning off notifications completely here will prevent users from using the urgent message function to reach you. More on this below.

Selecting the urgent (!) option before typing your message will send an urgent message that will break through the other user's phone settings even if they have their phone silenced. It will not, however breakthrough if that user has their notifications turned off at either the app level or the phone level as shown above.
